

Actual Questions Rejected by 'CRISPR Panel at Genetics Meeting

Dear CRISPR Panel,

My wife and I attend regular potluck dinners with a number of couples that we've known for many years. We like everyone's company and these are enjoyable social gatherings. The problem is that while my wife and I put a lot of effort into making creative and nutritious meals, some of the other couples think it's OK to just bring leftovers or salad out of a bag. I don't want to be a wet towel or to alienate other guests, but it seems as though everyone should be putting equal effort into the meals we are sharing. Should I say something?

Also, my CRISPR isn't working.

Sincerely,

Marvin Abelstein

Dear CRISPR Panel,

I am having trouble with the women in my lab crying every time CRISPR doesn't work. Any suggestions would be greatly appreciated!

Sincerely,

R.T.H.

Dear Beloved:

I know this message will come as surprise but it is great honorific that from displaced murdered royal family I ask assistance in this the transfer of US$2.4M from Bank in Cotonou Benin Republic West Africa.

Please I will offer your trustworthy person 20% of total sum and ask that you reply urgently so that I may return to my medical studies.

Awaiting your generous reply and also having trouble with CRISPR, especially the incorporation of large inserts.

Your Faithful Servant,

Nwangu Akpabio
